DOROTHY DIX The Eternal Triangle

Dear Miss Dix: The people who constitute this triangle are around 30. They are my girl friend, my wife, and myself. The wife is a semi-invalid and as a result of her state of health we have been and are missing much of the gaiety of life. She is faithful, economical, understanding and unselfish. We have a child of 7. The girl friend is a jewel, though inclined to be selfish like myself. She has qualities my wife will never equal. We are much in love and look at life from the same standpoint. I have offered my wife one-half of my salary and all that I have if she will release me from the bonds of matrimony. She refuses, not only on account of herself, but because it will deprive me of a career and the child of a father. The girl friend is willing to assist me with a portion of her salary in starting me in a professional career if I separate from the wife. The girl contended that if I love her I will throw everything to the winds and come to her, and I maintain that there are some things in life that even love does not surpass. I feel a sense of responsibility toward my child that seems to be above love. So this is the question at issue between the three of us. Both women are miserable and I must make a decision. What are your comments on this situation?

BETWEEN THE DEVIL AND THE DEEP BLUE SEA
Answer: I agree with you that there are things more important in life than love. There is duty. There is honor. There is the obligation that a man has to the child he has brought into the world, and if he has any sense of these he can find no happiness in a love that has bought at the price of his conscience.

Children Real Victims
We can say all we please about the right of a man and a woman to live their own lives and to part if they find that they are mismatched, or incongruous or if they have ceased to care for each other and found somebody whom they really love. But no sophistries can blind us to the harm that is done to the children who are the real victims of a divorce and who are left fatherless or motherless. Feeling as you do, I doubt you will find much happiness if you divorce your wife and marry the other woman. Always I think the face of the child you had deserted would come between you and her. And sometimes I think we get a clean happiness out of doing our duty that is better and more sustaining than any hot thrill of passion. But God help the man who has to decide between two women who love him, for he is bound to hurt one or the other and his own heart.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix: I am a widower in my 50's, children all grown and married. I am living alone and am very tired of it. Would you advise me to marry and, if so, should I look for a widow or an old maid? Which will make me the better wife.

J. P. D.
Answer: I think you would be very wise to marry, provided you pick-out a woman in your own age group and one who has similar tastes and habits to your own and is accustomed to the same environment.

The best bet would be some middle-aged neighbor woman whom you have known for years and who would have the same background and interests that you have. The previous status of the woman makes little difference, though I should incline to the widow as the better bet on the ground that, having had experience in getting along with a husband, she would know better how to make allowances for masculine peculiarities and not expect too much of a mere man. On the other hand some of the greatest husband-spoilers I have ever known were old maids. They expended upon the men they married all the pent-up affection and romance and desire for something to mother and pet and fuss over that they had been accumulating all their lives.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix: Mine is the old story of the girl in love with a married man. When I first met him I had many boy friends and dates. I have given them all up for him, as he is extremely jealous and says that if he can't have me no one else shall. We have gone to many places together. Every holiday finds us at many distant towns, summer resorts, etc. He is wonderful to his wife and child, but says that his responsibility ceases after he provides for them. But he never speaks of getting a divorce from his wife. The question is, what is the proper thing for me to do? Is it better for me to sacrifice my happiness for his wife and baby? Will this one affair have a marinating effect on my life hereafter?

UNHAPPY
Answer: The only rule that any girl needs to guide her in such a situation as yours is the Golden Rule. Treat every other woman's husband as you would like some girl to treat yours. And just as a bit of ordinary prudence, sit down and try to figure out what you are going to get out of a love affair with a married man. You can't marry him without breaking up another woman's home. Generally, the man doesn't want to marry you because he doesn't want the expense of alimony, nor the expense of supporting two wives. When you devote yourself to a married man you drive all the eligible men away, and so in the end all that you get out of it is a scandal, your good name and being deserted yourself in the end, for a philanderer, is true to no one. Sorry business, I call it.

have to be thin to be popular?

FATTIES
Answer: According to the fashion reports, curves are coming in and angles are going out, so there is hope for the plump girl. If it is true that bones are no longer the object of an almost idolatrous worship, then boys' taste will change and they will prefer the girl who is a good armful to one who is a living skeleton.

But there is no reason for a girl to be fat. Take plenty of exercise, count your calories and lay off sweets and starches and fats, and you can reduce to any state of slimmness you desire.

New Floggings Stir Section of Alabama

Birmingham, Ala., June 20.—(AP)—Three new floggings were added today to the growing list of acts by robed and hooded terrorists in this area.

They were revealed to newsmen by one of the victims, a widowed mother of five. She is Mrs. Irene Burton, 38, of Dora, Ala.

Two of her daughters, Billie Faye, 18, and Sally, 16, were forced to go with her by the masked band. Both daughters stood beside her on a wooded hillside road as she was struck three times with a rope the night of June 3.

Two men, both seized by the band at the Burton home also were flogged. They first were threatened with hanging. A third man was left because he was a cripple.

Dora, a mining hamlet of about 1,000, is 28 miles northwest of Birmingham, in adjoining Walker county. It is about 20 miles or more from the scenes of other recent beatings and cross burnings in Jefferson (Birmingham).

Mrs. Burton, together with most of the other victims of the night riders, blames the Ku Klux Klan. She said members of the band "wore robes with crosses in small 'wreles,' and hoods. That description fits Klan regalia.

Mrs. Burton said the men accused her of running an "indecent place." She denied the charge. Chief Deputy Sheriff Herman Treece at Jasper, county seat of Walker, said last night he had heard of the whippings at Dora, but no formal complaint had been made to his office.

He added that no formal investigation had been made.

T. Birmingham, tried to comfort her daughter, but was rebuffed. She told reporters she was pushed away by Victor, not by Kathleen.

Babich was not permitted to see his wife after the verdict was announced at 9:49 p. m. (CST). He changed to a dark green sports shirt and left for prison at 10:35 p. m., handcuffed to Sheriff Herman Kubiak.

Milton told the jury that he picked Patricia up on her way home from school last Feb. 10. As they sat in his father's car he showed her a gun to frighten her so she wouldn't tattle that Kathleen was pregnant. He said she picked it up and it went off when he grabbed for it.

He became frightened, tied a concrete building block to her feet and dropped her body in the river. She had been shot twice through the head.

The 10 men and two women jurors began deliberating at 8:04 p. m. and reached a verdict at 9:19 p. m. but was another half hour before Judge Steffes arrived from home to reconvene the court.

Chief Defense Counsel Arthur Richter said he will file a written motion for a new trial within a few days.

of east Arkansas polio patients.

The Arkansas division of the national foundation for infantile paralysis has brought two additional respirators — used in treating polio patients — here from Hot Springs and Fort Smith. Charles L. Massey, Jr., head of the division, said two additional Red Cross nurses were to arrive today to help offset a shortage of personnel for treating patients.

Washington disclosed that the disease is striking a lower age group than usual, most victims being one to five years of age and only five being over ten. He attributed this to immunization to a certain extent of older persons who got polio virus earlier in life with little or no effect.

Granddaughter of Kaiser Weds Texas

By JAMES DEVLIN

Hechingen, Germany, June 21.—(AP)—Kaiser Wilhelm's granddaughter married her Texas suitor in a royal castle today in a scene of pomp recalling the glitter of the once-mighty house of Hohenzollern.

The royal Hohenzollern flag with the black eagle which once struck awe in European hearts fluttered over the 1,000-year old castle as blond princess Cecilie became Mrs. Clyde Harris of Amarillo, Tex.

Both are 31—they were born the year Kaiser Wilhelm fled into Holland, an exile.

The princess and the young American businessman exchanged their vows before a select assembly of German royalty and Texans. Harris, an interior decorator, will take his bride from this ancestral Hohenzollern show place to an apartment in Amarillo.

The castle in the French zone of occupied Germany is a turreted stone building perched atop a steel hill.

The "who's who" of German royalty attended, headed by the bride's father—67-year-old Crown Prince Wilhelm, who might rule the German empire today if Kaiser Wilhelm's schemes of conquest had not been smashed.

"It was a beautiful wedding," said Lawrence Hagy, former mayor of Amarillo, who attended the ceremony with Wes Izzard, editor of the Amarillo News-Globe.

The wedding brought the whole royal family together for the first time since the war. The bride's mother, Crown Princess Cecilie, and three brothers were at the ceremony.

CLIPPED ANGEL

By Clive Grierson Cornish

Copyright, 1949, NEA SERVICE, INC.

I gave her three spanks. I don't know how much they hurt—I was more concerned with the principle of the thing than lasting results.

The Story: Mike Taig, a mining engineer, just returned to the States from Bolivia, meets an old lawyer friend, Doug Weyman, in a cocktail lounge. Mike has a three-month vacation planned, but Doug wants Mike to take over a special job for his client. About that time a very beautiful young woman enters the place. Mike appraises her as "cute society" and very spoiled. Doug introduces Mike to the girl, Cory Parnell, and, too late, Mike realizes this is the "client" with the special job that Doug has been talking about. Doug tells Cory that Mike has just called her a "spoiled brat," and excuses himself, leaving Cory and Mike together.

"He has a so-called sense of humor," Cory Parnell said. "Or did you really call me a 'spoiled brat,' Mr. McTaig?"

"I—well—the fact is, I've never seen you before, so I couldn't very well, could I?" I hedged.

"You have seen me before," she said.

There was a trick in it somewhere. She was not the kind of girl that men forget.

"It was 15," she said, "in pig-tails, and you said you liked the way I cooked beans."

"Wait a minute," I said. "Visions of a skinny brat in a checked gingham dress flashed before my eyes. In a School of Mines, be old Parbotted Parnell's daughter, would you?"

"Yes," she said.
I got up and gave her a formal bow.

"Miss Parnell," I said, "when I next see your father I shall congratulate him on his excellent taste in daughters."

"You won't be seeing him," she said, quietly. "He died two years ago."

"I'm sorry. He was a friend of mine."

He had been more than that. When I was young and knew everything, he took me in hand and taught me the things they don't teach in a School of Mines.

Maybe he liked me because I refused to be awed by his magnificently explosive temper, but, at any rate, we had always gotten along famously.

"He was a grand old man," I said. "Now that he's gone, who's running the Dark Angel?"

"I am."

I didn't get it at first, so I tried to make myself clearer. "Sure, naturally you'd inherit everything—Parbotted never had a partner—but your dad was his own mine manager, superintendent and everything. Who looks after the mine for you?"

Her eyes sparkled, and it didn't hurt her looks. "I told you, I'm running it."

"Congratulations," I said, and wondered how long the Dark Angel would last. Miners are a superstitious bunch. They think a woman around a mine is poison.

"Thanks."

There was a short silence. I could guess what this was leading up to. She wouldn't admit she was licked, but, just the same, she was looking for a man to run her show.

"I'd like you to have a look at the mine," she said.
"I'll put your name at the head of the list—for three months from now."

"I can't wait three months."

I shrugged. "There are other mining engineers in this town. . . . She bit her lips. Not because they were trembling—Lord, no—but because she was mad at not getting what she wanted.
"Dad told me there were very few people in the world he trusted completely—and you were one of them."

Now Searching for Impractical Joker

Hot Springs, June 18 —(AP)— Patrolman Charlie Clemmons of the Hot Springs police force, is looking for a certain "impractical" joker.

A truck owner stopped Clemmons recently to protest out the officer has put a ticket on his truck for a parking violation, when he had not been near the scene of the violation.

One look at the ticket told Clemmons what had happened. The owner of the passenger car stuck the ticket on the truck, which had been "tagged" stuck the ticket on the truck.

"He failed to notice that his license number was on the ticket and I have a carbon copy," Clemmons said. "I'll get him sooner or later and when I do —" quickly that there were surprisingly few.

A waiter came over and gaped at us.

"Two rye highballs," I said, and slipped him a five. He went away looking puzzled.

"All right," I said, "get it out of your system."

"I hate you!" she blazed. "You're the most hateful person I ever met! I hate the sight of you!"

"Two hates, yes, but three hates, no. It's repetitious."

She glared at me.

"Look," I said, "if you'll apologize, I'll apologize, then we'll be quits."

"All right," I said, "then let's declare an armistice. Where would you like to eat?"

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler
Copyright, 1947
By King Features Syndicate.

New York, June 20 — In stating his own views on labor or union problems and I take it, the views of the Crown Heights school of Catholic workers of which he is director, The Rev. William J. Smith, S. J., wrote:

"The position, in general, is that 'the trade unions, in spite of certain abuses, are a beneficial and a necessary means to gain for the workers what they are rightfully entitled to.' Nine out of ten people who read Mr. Pegler regularly are not merely anti-racketeers. They are anti-union."

I think Pegler as a personality is unimpaired in the questions of labor unionism and the labor movement. I am sorry to let them down, but they are mistaken. I am anti-union. The distinction I sometimes make is that I am pro-labor but anti-racketeer and anti-union.

Our union movement is anti-labor. It is incorrigible and inherently hostile to all of us. It hurts the workers first and worst because they are in the front rank of conflict. That proposition could be as easily maintained by anyone else who brought knowledge, experience and firmness to the debate. It is not Fordism merely because I state and maintain it.

We need no more congressional committee investigations to prove the basic fact that our union movement is composed almost entirely of dictatorialships and/or rotten-borough political systems. A review of the ages and terms of the union bosses, many of whom have been presidents of great aggregations of subjects for forty, thirty or twenty years, should indicate to an intelligent American that there is something wrong with the election machinery of unionism. This is not necessarily proof of the wrong. A good man could be elected again and again by the rank and file in their own self-interest. But the facts prove that the rank and file have no influential voice. If ballots are cast at all, it is the subjects who are voted by the bosses, equivalent to the ward bosses of the worst metropolitan areas. It is not the people who vote the ballots.

In many cases, there is no pretense of popular rule through elections. John L. Lewis, one of the great powers of unionism, doesn't even bother to deny that he "votes" a majority of the districts of the United Mine Workers in all executive decisions through his control of two-thirds of the districts by appointive satraps. He boldly maintains that a district boss is not necessarily more intelligent or honest by reason of his having been elected by the miners in a secret ballot than others are who were appointed by him to represent the miners. But his appointees have a point there. But his appointees are not a puppet. This is common practice in unionism. It is a practice so rotten that no intelligent believer in elective government can defend it. The tenement union practices the same system through "administrators" appointed by Dan Tobin, the president. The carpenters' union does the same. So do the hodcarriers and operating engineers' unions.

It is standard practice. Even if it were only a technical possibility under an unforeseen defect in the union laws, it would be a great evil, lest some tyrant discover it and take advantage of it. But it is not a mere theoretical possibility. It is a familiar condition and yet every proposal to plug the hole has been resisted by the very men, the union bosses, who should be quick and zealous to correct it if they really had any affection for "labor."

Some unions, when they do hold their "national conventions" every four, five, eight, ten or 31 years, vote through delegates. The representatives of subjects back home. These conventions are usually drunken orgies. Dissolute racketeers, young and old, bring their "secretaries" at the expense of the rank and file, never bother to itemize their expenses, and counts, and "swill and wallow in gaudy hotels, night clubs and gambling houses. The ruling crooks have absolute power to appoint the committees on credentials and resolutions. The committee on credentials is a tight little clique of goons who reject rebellious delegates and recognize their own kind of rogues as the true representatives of the rank and file.

Whenever dictators on top need that power, there it is and that is one of many reasons why Pegler is anti-union. The committee on resolutions throttles every proposal which may maverick defiance to the corrupt interests of the union in power. It may be a proposal to hold annual conventions, to restrict the uses of union money by the bosses, to suspend the salaries of these parasites during strikes when the rank and file receive no pay, to hold supervised elections by secret ballot or to forbid the appropriation of union money for politics in any guise including the guise of "educational projects."

This would forbid the likes of the gifts of $250,000 to Israel and $250,000 to some political project in Italy which were put through the ladies garment workers union at the expense of workers who were not given a free voice. The gift to Israel was a political coup. David Dubinsky. The gift to the Italian projects was a political stroke for Luigi Antonini, who controls the Italian-American element of this union membership. The union has served Dubinsky and Antonini, not the rank and file.

There never was a time in our country when free men's rights were as arrogantly ridden down as they are today by unions. The musicians' union fined men last year for earning more money than the union bosses thought they had a right to can. A painter from California may be denied the right to work in an eastern city, even though he is a paid-up loyal union man, unless he bribes the union boss in the eastern city. Business agents can call men off their jobs without a strike vote and this, too,

Legion Plays Murfreesboro There Tonight

Tonight the American Legion baseball team goes to Murfreesboro for a return game with the strong Pike County nine. In the initial meeting there last week, Hope won 9 to 4.

Again Jack McClendon will seek another win over Murfreesboro Manager Clyde Zinn announced.

Wednesday night at Fair park the legion boys will tangle with Nashville and take on Curtis here Friday night. Record crowds are expected at both contests.

All games will be broadcast. The Junior Legion boys will go to El Dorado tonight and Billy Clinton will start on the mound. Thursday the Juniors return home against Hot Springs.

Thus baseball fans will have an opportunity of seeing four homes games this week.

'Giant Killer' Tagged on Young Cardinal

By RALPH RODEN Associated Press Sports Writer

"Staley, the giant killer"—That's what St. Louis fans are calling Cardinal Leo Staley, 25-year-old broad shouldered right-hander of the St. Louis Cardinals today.

Primarily a bull pen operative last year, and at the outset of this season, Staley has been going great guns since given a starter's role on May 28. The Brush Prairie, Wash., native has found his side arm sinker ball and sweeping curve especially puzzling to the New York Giants.

Staley pitched six Cards to within a half-game of the National League's league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers last night, beating the Giants, 7-2 in St. Louis. The Dodgers were idle.

The triumph was Staley's fifth of the season and his third over the once powerful Giants who occupy fifth place.

The Cards nicked Monte Kennedy for a run in the first and drove the young lefty to cover in four more in the third. Doubles by Red Schoendienst and Nippy Jones plus Enos Slaughter's triple featured the uprising.

Boston's third place Braves crawled to within two games of the Dodgers, edging the Chicago Cubs, 3-2, in the majors' lone day game. Elbie Fletcher singled home Ed Stanky from second base in the ninth inning with the winning run.

Vern Bickford went all the way to gain his ninth victory. Hank Sauer accounted for Chicago's run with an eighth inning homer.

The fourth place Philadelphia Phillies, behind the seven-hit pitching of Russ Meyer, bounced back the Pirates, 4-1, in Pittsburgh.

The New York Yankees grabbed a tighter hold on the American League lead, increasing their advantage to four games over the runner-up Detroit Tigers. The Yankees beat the St. Louis Browns, 4-1, in the stadium while the Tigers lost, 6-1, to the Red Sox in Boston.

Fred Sanford, tried from the Browns for $100,000 in the fall, limited his former mates to seven hits.

Walt Masterson, recently obtained from Washington, and Joe Dobson halted the Tigers on six blows while the Sox collected 14 off a trio of Detroit pitchers. Masterson led the seventh claimers of a sore elbow.

The third place Philadelphia Athletics inched to within a half game of Detroit, beating the world champion Cleveland Indians, 4-1, in the Quaker city.

Dick Fowler granted the Indians only four hits in posting his fifth straight triumph and sixth of the season.

Chicago ended a five game losing streak as lefty Bob Kuzava pitched a 5-4 triumph over the Senators in Washington.

El Dorado Wins Game as Jakes Steals Home

By The Associated Press

El Dorado resorted to one of the most difficult feats in baseball — stealing home — Monday night to take a second straight one-run victory over the Cotton States League leading Greenwood Dodgers.

Harvill Jakes, the Oilers' fleet center fielder, streaked home free in the seventh inning to set the final score at 5-4. Three El Dorado runs in the sixth—one four hits and two walks—had set the stage for Jakes' theft by tying the score.

Despite their loss, the Dodgers maintained their four-game lead as second-place Pine Bluff fell, 9-4, at Helena. Johnny McPherson drove in four runs for the Seaporters who backed up their second win without defeat under new Manager Bob Benish.

The Natchez Indians crept to within half a game of second place with a 1-0 squeak over Helena. Clarkdale, Ray Mink, who scored his ninth triumph against one defeat, and the Planters' Cotton Hill each allowed only five hits in a superb duel. But the Indians managed to bunt singles by Jack Custer, Jack Chandler and Bob Collins in the fourth for the lone tally.

The fight for the second spot will grow more intense Tuesday night as Natchez opens a three-game series at Pine Bluff.

Greenwood's Jakes broke loose for nine runs in the fifth inning to beat Hot Springs 10 to 7. Figuring in the upspring were six hits including Nick De Luca's three-run triple, three walks and an error. Grant into that telling last half of the fifth, the Bathers held a 5-1 lead.

Tuesday night's games: Helena at Greenville. Greenwood at Clarkdale. El Dorado at Hot Springs. Natchez at Pine Bluff.

Serve for Many Years
At Low Annual Cost

Concrete pavements generally carry the heaviest traffic. Yet their annual maintenance cost is far lower than any other pavement intended for similar service. And the rugged strength and stamina of concrete assure long life — many years of all-weather service without interruptions for frequent repairs or rebuilding.

Compare construction costs too, and you'll find that concrete pavement usually costs less to build than any other pavement of equal load-carrying capacity.

So with long life, low maintenance expense and economical first cost, concrete is easily the thriftiest investment for your main traveled highways, assuring, as it does, low annual cost—the true measure of pavement economy.

The Intermediate Ruth Culpepper

list church met at the home of pepper G. A.'s of the First Baptist church on Thursday evening.

Ina Nell Loomis, president, opened the meeting with prayer. New officers elected during the business meeting were: President, Bobbie Jean Erskine; vice president, Pat Erskine; secretary, Frances Jo McWilliams; program chairman, Ruthie Clark.

An interesting program on "Hitch Your Wagon to a Star" was given by the program chairman Rosana Langley.

Refreshments were served by circle 1 of the W. M. U. to members: Ruthie Clark, Bobbie Jean Erskine, Alma Lois Ferrell, Rosana Langley, Ina Nell Loomis, Frances Jo McWilliams, Frances Reese and to guests Sue Butler of Texarkana and Nancy Garrett. The meeting adjourned with prayer by Mrs. Williams.

The speaker at the Prescott Kiwanis club last Thursday night at the Broadway Hotel was Colonel James Shewmake who spoke on the Narrows Dam project at the headwaters of the Little Missouri River, twelve miles north of Murfreesboro, Ark. He emphasized the importance of this dam to flood control and the economic benefits it would bring to the whole area. Local sportsmen anticipate excellent fishing after the project is completed in March 1950. The estimated cost of the construction is set at 13 and one-half million. Other guests were engineers and officials of the project: Larry Soars, Frank Wood, and O. G. Williams. M. W. Greeson of Prescott was also present.

The club enjoyed several musical selections on the piano accented by Carl Beck. The local club has maintained an average score of 90 per cent during the past six months and remains in the Gold division of Kiwanis international, which speaks well for the president of the club, Sax Regan, and the secretary Hansel Herring.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe R. Hamilton spent the week end in Camden with Mrs. Hamilton's parents Judge and Mrs. G. R. Haynie. The Haynie family enjoyed a Father's Day reunion.

Mrs. Duncan Mitchell has returned to her home in Little Rock after a visit with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Atkins.

Dallis Atkins was called to Willisville Monday on account of the death of his brother J. P. Atkins.

Mrs. Jesse Crow spent Friday in Little Rock.

Mrs. T. E. Logan motored to Texarkana Friday for the day.

Among those from Prescott who attended the Field-Bruner wedding that was solemnized in Hope Sunday afternoon were: Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wray, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Mitchell, Mrs. Vuel Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bryson, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. McKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Langley, Mr. and Mrs. Don Cavanah, Mrs. Dawson Atkins.

Hopes of Nationalist China Pinned on Aging Warlord, May Be a Smart Decision

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The government of Nationalist China finally has been strapped on the aging shoulders of the country's oldest warlord—Marshal Yen Hsi-shan of Shansi province—who has been made premier of what is widely regarded as a "last straw" regime.

From Canton, the great southern metropolis which now is capital of the Nationalist government, comes the grim word that most Nationalists feel if old Yen fails to hold the crumbling Republic together, the end for independence is near.

In the background, of course, is Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek who still makes the Nationalist government. If the Nationalists should be able to hold out, the Communists, the real leader will be Chiang.

Do the Nationalists have any prospects at all of standing off the Communists? If you had to wager your last cent on that question, the odds would compel you to bet on the Nationalists.

However, southern China is a vast and difficult area for control. Many observers feel that the fighting will continue for years, especially in isolated areas.

And who can say what might grow out of a civil war of attrition? The very vastness and unwieldiness of China might be enough to stop the Communists from making a complete conquest.

Marshal Yen is one of the most colorful figures among the old warlords. At one time he was vastly rich—the feudal lord over territory about the size of Great Britain. Yen came into power during the Chinese revolution of 1911 which resulted in the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty. He then was a dashing young general of about thirty. Within five years he became known in Shansi as a model "governor" of his 12,000,000 people because he built roads and schools, suppressed bandits and arrested opium dealers. He became vastly rich.

All that "glory" belongs to the past, however. The 63 year old marshal no longer is that dashing young general of nearly forty years ago. Still, he has a great reputation and his fiery spirit is willing though the flesh is weak.

Yen may prove to be a very useful figure-head for the ship of Chiang's preparations to meet the state at a critical juncture. Chiang's preparations to meet the enemy remain obscure. However, as reported in a previous column, the Nationalists are said to be preparing to reestablish their government in the ancient city of Chungking, which was capital during the world war. This would give them quick access to India by air over the notorious wartime "hump."

Grandmother Would Rather Have Her Automobile Back

Kansas City, June 20 —(AP)—The bandits had a kiss for grandmother.

But grandmother — 59-year-old Mrs. Sadie Croser — would rather have her automobile back.

Her story, as told to police, was that a young man stepped into the car as she stopped for a traffic light while driving home late Saturday night.

He flourished a gun, forced her to drive to another intersection where another young man got into the car. She was then ordered to drive out into the country where the two holdup men rifled her son, Mrs. John Eagle, Miss Nora Eagle, Donnell Durham, Miss Kathleen Woolley, Mrs. Burgess, Mrs. E. E. Shell and Jim Gentry Thomas.

Mrs. John A. Davis spent a part of last week in Hope visiting Mr. and Mrs. John P. Cox.

Miss Martha Ann Tippet was returned from a visit with friends in Little Rock and Newport.

Mrs. Harvey Benis and daughter Miss Mildred are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Duke in Dallas, Tex.

Miss Rita McCaskill and Sidney Parker, Jr., have returned from Ferndale where they attended the Presbyterian Senior Conference.

Mrs. J. R. Cox, Bob Cox, Mrs. Clara Cox, and son John Robert and Mrs. Jim Yancey have returned from Durant, Okla. where they motored to meet Mrs. Wylie Bird and son Stevie of Ft. Cobb, Okla. who accompanied them home for a visit.

Aerial Posse Thrills N. Y. Spectators

New York, June 20 —(AP)—New York's sky cops staged an aerial thriller yesterday.

A speedboat, with its rudder locked, made dizzy circles around Jamaica bay after the owner fell overboard.

Scores of other small boats were endangered, and police and surface craft could not catch the runaway.

Police sent a helicopter, which followed the crazy course of the speedboat.

The co-pilot, detective Harold W. Behrens, dropped into the cockpit of the runaway craft while the pilot, acting sergeant Gerald Crosson, held the helicopter steady.

Behrens turned off the outboard motor, and a police launch took the boat in tow. Its owner had been rescued by a passing boat.

Soldier Goes on Trial for Two Murders

Yellville, June 20 —(AP)—A 24-year-old AWOL soldier who admitted slaying an Arkansas state trooper and a railroad man in this north Arkansas mountain country, began a fight for his life today.

Charged with first degree murder, Kenneth D. Speegle went on trial today for the policeman's death. Prosecutor Eugene W. Moore said he would ask the death penalty.

State Patrolman S. V. Pavatt was wounded fatally last Sept. 25 by a rifle bullet fired from a lonely mountain cabin. He was investigating a series of farm burglaries in the area.

While hunting for the killer, authorities found the body of Zuc E. Crook, who owned the cabin, buried in a shallow grave.

Papers found in a nearby cave started an extensive manhunt for Speegle, AWOL from his army post at Fort Lewis, Wash. He was arrested about two weeks later near Oklahoma City.

Dr. George W. Jackson, superintendent of the Arkansas state hospital, declared Speegle sane after an examination but Jackson said the young soldier apparently suffered amnesia as he said he could remember nothing which occurred at the time of the killings.

Last month Lt. H. R. Peterson, head of the Arkansas state police criminal investigation department, announced that Speegle had admitted killing the two men and had feigned amnesia.

In Little Rock last night Peterson announced the recovery of a rifle shown by ballistics test to have been the one which killed trooper Pavatt.

Peterson said the weapon was found in Alamosa, Colo., "the result of an outstanding piece of detective work."

Speegle told officers he escaped from officers soon after the shooting by boarding a freight train, leaving the rifle in a refrigerator car when he jumped off the train the next day, Peterson reported.

It was 4 a. m. before she got home. Said her husband, Issy Croser: "It's not like her to be out so late."

River Yields Bodies of Nine Persons

By the Associated Press

The flooded Potomac and Shenandoah rivers receded today and yielded up the bodies of nine persons drowned in the rain-swept area over the weekend.

A dozen persons were reported missing after flash floods early Saturday sent the two rivers plunging over their banks. Petersburg, W. Va., was almost isolated for about 36 hours, but communications were restored yesterday. The angry waters wrecked 60 homes and approximately 285 other buildings there.

Damage from the flood may run into the millions of dollars, one official said. Meantime, health authorities began a program of inoculations against the threat of flood-polluted water.

Light showers fell in Portland, Me., where a drouth has parched the surrounding New England vicinity since the Memorial day weekend. The weather bureau said, however, that the showers "didn't give much relief to the area."

Farmers and conservation officials say a steady two-day rain is needed to ease the danger of forest fires and save wilting crops.

Elsewhere in the country, seasonable warm and humid weather was forecast for today.

Typical temperatures yesterday around the country included 94 degrees at Huntington, W. Va.; 91 at Cincinnati and Pierre, N. Dak.; 92 at Chicago, 83 at Kansas City; and 89 at Phoenix. San Francisco reported a high of 87, and Los Angeles 78. Readings in the southeast were about normal.
